

Railcare summarises IAF in Münster

During the week, Railcare participated in the International Exhibition for Track Technology, IAF Münster 2025, resulting in several new business contacts and a strengthened position as a key partner in the future of the railway industry.

At the exhibition, the company presented its solutions for efficient and sustainable railway maintenance, with a particular focus on powerful vacuum technology, material handling, modernisation and rebuilding.

Material handling was highlighted as a significant challenge in the industry, especially when working in difficult-to-access environments or where material is contaminated and needs to be replaced safely and efficiently. Railcare also showcased its expertise in the modernisation of vehicles and machinery, an area where demand is increasing as customers seek more specific and technically advanced solutions.

- 'We see a growing need for customised solutions that meet customers' requirements for both efficiency and sustainability. It is clear that Railcare has an important role to play here,' says Mattias Remahl, CEO at Railcare.

The exhibition is an important meeting place to promote Railcare's services in the European market while contributing to the development of a more sustainable railway infrastructure.
